Armistice Day Was Observed Saturday

Armistice Day was observed with exercises in the College chapel Saturday from 12 to 1 o'clock, at which time the Service Flag of the College was taken from its place in the hall of the Main Building and given over to the Librarian of the College for preservation among the archives of the institution.

Dr. John Lesslie Hall, Dean of the Department of English, made the principal address, in which he paid glowing tribute to those alumni and former students of William and Mary who laid down their lives in their country's service.

After a brief opening exercise, Dr. Donald W. Davis made a short talk, and on behalf of the former William and Post of the American Legion, surrendered the charter of the Post to State Adjutant Crush, of the Legion, who accepted it with a brief talk. Following Mr. Crush, Channing M. Hall, representing the Peninsula Post of the Legion, extended an invitation to all Legion members in the College to affiliate with that post, assuring them of a hearty welcome to participate in all activities of that Post.

Benefit Dance In Jefferson Hall Gym

There will be a dance tomorrow night in the Gymnasium of Jefferson Hall, the proceeds of which will be applied to the fund for paying the expenses of the band to Richmond and for the purchase of megaphones for the Thanksgiving game.

All students are urged to attend this dance, and help in the cause. The attention of freshmen is called to the announcement made at the dance last Saturday night to the effect that they must bring girls to all dances. Admission price will be fifty cents, and J. C. Phillips' Spasm Spreaders will furnish the inspiration.

Spanish Department To Broaden Field

The plans of the Spanish Department comprehend a broad and interesting scope for the year. Professor C. E. Castaneda, who is now conducting three classes in Spanish, hopes to build up a strong graduate which will encourage a high standard of scholarship. Future courses are being considered which may include studies in the Spanish drama, the development of the novel, modern drama, and literary movements in Spanish-America.

One method which Mr. Castaneda has introduced as a means of increasing proficiency in the study is the organization of a Spanish Club on a strictly honorary basis. Only those students possessing the required records in grades will be eligible to membership.

It is the belief of the Spanish De-

Pledges Announced by Women's Frats

The following pledges have been announced by the Women's Fraternities in the order listed:

Chi Omega

Marguerite Bickers, Gay Burruss, Elizabeth Clement, Lillian Easley, Elizabeth Epes, Phyllis Smith, Virginia Stetson, Laura Valentine.

Kappa Alpha Theta

Maxwell Brokenborough, Beverly Caldwell, Mary F. Griffith, Mildred Meyer, Kitty Myrick.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Helen Forsyth, Katherine Holman, Margaret Holman, Virginia Lee, Lowndes Scott.

Delta Phi Kappa

Virginia Ayres, Blanche Bryan, Marguerite Young.

Iota Mu Pi

Katherine Armstrong, Rachel Tarrall, Ruth Yeamans.

Many Parties At End Of Rushing Season

The Chi Omega Fraternity entertained with a formal banquet at the Williamsburg Hotel, Friday night, November 9. Virginia Anderson acted as toastmistress, and toasts were offered by Mrs. J. R. Geiger, Mrs. Van Garrett and Miss Beatrice Hening. The decorations suggested the fraternity colors, cardinal and straw, and dorines bearing the fraternity letters were given as favors. Out of town guests were: Mary Godwin, Norfolk; Charlotte Shipman, Newport News; Gertrude Ebel, Richmond, and Beatrice Hening, George Washington University.

The Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternity gave a formal banquet at the Old Debtors' Prison, Saturday night, November 10. The fraternity colors were carried out in a color scheme of black and gold. An old spinning wheel in the corner near the fireplace symbolized the prison's historical significance; and the idea was repeated in the favors which were miniature spinning wheels. Julia Dixon presided as toastmistress, and the program included a toast offered by Emily Hall, and readings by Carolyn Kelly, Elizabeth Lee, and Elizabeth Palmer. The out-of-town guests were: Ruth Parker, Portsmouth; Eliza Eldridge, Richmond; Elizabeth Lee, Hampton, and Mary Ayers, Accomac.

The Iota Mu Pi entertained with a formal dinner Thursday night, November 8, at the Pocahontas Tea Room. The Tea Room was decorated with the fraternity colors of black and red. Mrs. J. E. Rowe, and Mrs. Paul Warren, patronesses of the fraternity, were among the guests.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity gave a banquet in the College Dining Hall at 8:30, Thursday, November 8.

DELAWARE ELEVEN BOWS TO INDIANS IN BRILLIANT BATTLE

Women's Council Makes Some Changes

At the monthly meeting of the Women's Student Government held Monday, November 5, the question as to whether or not all decisions concerning withdrawal and announcements of other decisions of the Women's Student Council should be reported to the Student Government meetings, was discussed, and after considerable argument, the organization was given a month in which to consider the subject.

Rachel Tarrall, Chairman of an Investigating Committee, reported the policy of other schools, including Bryn Mawr, Agnes Scott, Westhampton, and others, and in the majority of cases these schools announced withdrawals and expulsions.

At this meeting an amendment to the constitution was made and carried, changing the name of the Campus Committee to that of Discipline Committee and giving the committee separate articles in the constitution.

First Bird Lecture Delivered Monday

"The Remaking of Europe" was the subject of the first of a series of lectures which are being delivered in the College Chapel by Hugh S. Bird, of Washington, D. C., Former Professor of Psychology in the faculty which reorganized the College of William and Mary in 1888. Mr. Bird is well fitted for a discussion of this subject, having had many years of practical experience, and residence in several of the largest capital cities of the old country.

Mr. Bird stated that the great war accomplished such far reaching changes in the map of Europe that it would be difficult to distinguish the old Europe from that of today, and that changes now going on make any definite discussion of conditions entirely out of the question. However, he did not include Great Britain, Scandinavia, and Spain in the up-to-date Europe which is undergoing the rapid changes, saying that they are practically out of the revolutionary area.

The World War, according to Mr. Bird, arose after numerous Balkan Wars, which Austria settled for the price of a strip of territory, and the great war brought on by the greedy military autocrats of Europe. The German people were educated for two generations with the war as an objective, and in the course of this education, were made mere machines which would obey the slightest command. They have not recovered from this attitude yet and therefore Germany is still in the mire which the horrible struggle left in its wake.

Sweeping to a gridiron victory it has not known in recent years, William and Mary held the undefeated Delaware University eleven at bay for two periods last Saturday, and then came back in the last half with an attack that fairly swept the Northerners off their feet, and trampled their game but courageous machine, 14 to 0, scoring two touchdowns in rapid succession. The humbling of the Delawareans was a longed for victory for William and Mary marked their fifth consecutive win, leaving the Indian goal line uncrossed except by Navy and Syracuse.

The much-talked-of Delaware eleven was able to register but three first downs against the sterling defense of the Indians, while Irwin, Charles and Hastings tore through the visitors line for a total of eight first downs. The bewildering, irresistible attack of the Indians baffled Delaware, and time and again the light and speedy Indian backs slipped through the opposing line for gains of moment.

The first half early developed into a punting duel, between Matsu and Elliott, with the odds in favor of the stellar Indian quarterback. The ball zig-zagged its course across the field time after time, and neither team was able to make telling gains. At times the Delaware eleven showed remarkable spurts of offensive work, and their backs showed clean pairs of heels on several occasions, but all their heralded shift plays, and dazzling aerial attacks came to naught against the superior Indian eleven.

Delaware only once threatened to score. That was in the first quarter, when the Northerners recovered a fumbled punt on William and Mary's ten-yard line, but a pass was grounded behind the goal posts, bringing the ball back into the Indian's possession on their own twenty-yard line. Neither

Another Gift To Blow Memorial Gym

Some months ago announcement was made of the gift of $100,000 from Mrs. George Preston Blow, of Yorktown, for the building of a new gymnasium at the College of William and Mary in Virginia, as a memorial to her husband, the late George Preston Blow.

Mrs. Blow has just made an additional contribution which will enable the College to erect a larger and more adequate gymnasium, commensurate with the needs of the College. This building will contain a large swimming pool, and all other provisions necessary for a complete modern gymnasium. In the wings of the building, rooms will be provided for meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association and for all the social activities of the men of the College. In

Pericles' Oration Read Armistice Day

In connection with the Armistice Day celebration last Saturday, Dr. Chandler wishes to call attention to the following extract from an oration of Pericles, which was read universally throughout the allied countries in observance of Armistice Day:

"But each one, man by man, has won imperishable praise, each has gained a glorious grave—not that sepulchre of earth wherein they lie, but the living tomb of everlasting remembrance wherein their glory is enshrined, remembrance that will live on the lips, that will blossom in the deeds of their countrymen the world over. For the whole earth is the sepulchre of heroes; monuments may rise and tablets be set up to them in their own land, but on far-off shores there is an abiding memorial that no pen or chisel has traced; it is graven, not on stone or brass, but on the living heart of humanity. Take these men, then, for your ensamples. Like them, remember that prosperity can be only for the free, that freedom is the sure possession of those alone who have courage to defend it."

The suggestion of the use of this extract came from Canada, and was accepted as appropriate for the occasion. Governor E. Lee Trinkle, of Virginia, read it in his Armistice Day address in Richmond.

Dr. Chandler also wishes to call attention to the fact that John Newport Green, an alumnus of the College of William and Mary, was the first American soldier to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor in the World War.

Richmond Students Reorganize Club

The appointment of a Committee whose duties it will be to get in touch with all students of high schools in Richmond who will graduate next June and urge them to consider William and Mary, was the feature of the meeting held by the Richmond Club in the home of Professor E. M. Gwathmey. At this meeting the Club was reorganized, and the following officers elected: E. Welford Brauer, President; Virginia Smith, Vice-President; Virginia Isley, Secretary and Treasurer. The Committee on Prospects consists of Annette Wilson, Junius Hord, and Miss Butcher.

Dr. Chandler and Dr. Hoke were present at the meeting, and delivered short talks of welcome to the new members. After the business meeting, there was dancing and conversation, and refreshments were served.

The Club at present has a membership of forty-four, and it is hoped that more residents of Richmond will become members.

The Exact Difference

"Father," said the conventional small boy, "what is the difference between a pedestrian and a jay-walker?"

"A pedestrian," returned the conventional father, "is a person who walks when you are walking. A jay-walker is a person who walks when you are driving."

By The Way

The University of Kansas declares there should be two national spanking days; the day after Hallowe'en and the day after daughter returns home from college.

It is announced from Washington that the price of turkeys for Thanksgiving will depend on the weather. We can easily see how the weather can effect the turkey supply and demand between now and November 29, but we ought to know what weather it is that has this effect. The weather here in this country, or over in Russia somewhere?

An Ohio young man met a girl in the morning, took her to luncheon and married her in the afternoon of the same day. But we have always believed a good theatrical press agent could beat that by the proper manipulation of a chorus girl, a young million-heir and an elevator with a parson in it.

We are glad to note that the college undergraduates of today are possessed of all the originality that characterized the student body at the University of Kansas fifteen years ago. Ohio State has a football player this season named Carlson, and the rooters call him "Swede," too.

place of bowling alleys, as originally contemplated, the revised plans will provide for squash courts, which have been substituted upon the recommendation of athletic experts, on the ground that they will provide for athletic activities for a very much larger number of students than could possibly make use of bowling alleys.

The new gymnasium will front on the Richmond Road and be adjacent to the new athletic field which will be laid out between the gymnasium and the Bright House, as soon as funds for the new athletic field are secured. The new location of the gymnasium and the proposed new athletic field have been made possible through the recent acquisition by the College of the Bright Farm, lying just to the west of the present College campus.

The authorities of the College are greatly encouraged by this generous additional gift from Mrs. Blow, and the students are enthusiastic in the assurance that upon the campus will stand in the near future a gymnasium building completely adequate to the athletic and social needs of the College.

SPORTS

BETWEEN THE GOAL POSTS

We can safely say that last Saturday's battle with Delaware was the greatest game played on the home grounds in the last four years. From the kick-off to the final whistle the game was full of real football action. The ends on both teams were so accurate on getting down under punts that the safety men repeatedly signaled for fair catches. Speaking of ends, Lee Todd should certainly come in for State honors. "Stink" Hastings was surely back in his old time form. In the last half Hastings and Irwin could not be stopped. "Blunder" Young was certainly playing that old slogan of "follow the ball." In our opinion the entire team played the best game of their career.

It is hoped that next year's schedule will contain a few home games of last Saturday's calibre.

The Todd family certainly "ended" everything Saturday.

It was noticeable that the game kept the majority of spectators on their feet.

Young didn't look old when it came to recovering fumbles.

The Indians face their hardest test tomorrow when they take the field against Roanoke. The Maroons practically ran rough-shod over George Washington last week. Roanoke has one of the best aerial attacks in the State, and will certainly bear watching in this department of the game.

Richmond will have quite an afternoon of it tomorrow when they line up against the Hampden-Sidney Tigers.

Virginia and V. P. I. meet tomorrow for the first time in eighteen years. Athletic relations between the two schools were severed when a dispute arose over the eligibility of the famous Hunter Carpenter, who made Camp's All-American while playing for Tech. V. P. I. will go to Charlottesville a slight favorite, although the Virginia eleven has been steadily improving since their defeat by V. M. I.

The greatest upset in football dope Saturday was the defeat of Notre Dame by Nebraska, 14 to 7.

The Tug-of-War between the Sophs and Ducs, which was pulled off between the halves Saturday, proved quite a thriller as it was something new in the way of starting class spirit here. After the event, which the Sophs won, a Duc was heard to make the statement that "he was sure that the rope stretched."

College Tennis Club Is Reorganized

At a meeting of all tennis enthusiasts Monday night, at which Dr. Robb was the chief speaker, the Tennis Club was reorganized. John Marshall, Captain of the team for this year, was elected President of the Club, and Charles Pollard, Manager of the team, was elected to serve as Secretary and Treasurer of the Club.

The members of the faculty tennis team have agreed to place the second court at the disposal of the tennis team until the new ones are finished.

A match with Virginia has already been secured to be played here some time in April, and other matches are pending. The Club will enter at once into a campaign for the promotion of interest in tennis, and for the construction of some good courts.

Progress Is Made by Hockey Squad

The girls' hockey teams are progressing as well as could be expected in view of the fact that they have no field for their practices and games. Caroline Sinclair, Hockey Manager, is coaching both the new and old girls' teams twice a week, and has about fifty girls out at present. The two teams will play another game Thursday, this being the second game in the series between the old and new girls. The first game was won by the old girls, 2-0.

The hockey season closes Thanksgiving and opens again next spring. At the close of the fall season, an honorary varsity team will be chosen, and girls making this team will receive 100 points toward their point monogram.

It is hoped by the coaches that by spring some kind of field will be available, and that the girls will give their hearty support to this nationally popular sport.

Eight Teams In New Basketball League

Coach Tasker called a meeting of all men who intended going out for basketball last Wednesday night, November 9. All men with the exception of varsity football players were made up into a league of eight teams and a schedule was formed. The purpose of this is to weed out the material and give the coach a good line on the prospects for varsity basketball when real practice starts. It is of great advantage to the coach and players because the men will be in good trim for hard practice when the season begins, and will not need so much training then. The names of the teams with their captains are given below.

The schedule is posted at the entrance to the main dining hall.

Sitting Bulls	Westbrook
Minnehahas	Vaughan
Seminoles	Wessels
Iriquois	Nat Watkins
Blackfeet	Scrap Chandler
Red Men	Goetz
Sioux	Marshall

team, although both advanced at will through "No man's land," was able to creep close enough to threaten a touchdown. Inside their thirty-yard line both showed a stone wall defense.

But from the opening of the third quarter to the final blast the thrills came fast and furious. The Indians started with a rush. Young recovered a fumbled punt early in the quarter, and the ball was carried down the field in a series of line plunges, with the offense ripping jagged holes in the visitors' line. Irwin lead the attack, carrying the ball with a vicious telling effect, scoring the first touchdown on a ten-yard end run. A few minutes later Young recovered another fumble on Delaware's five-yard line, and an off-tackle drive carried the ball over for the second touchdown. Towards the end of the half, Matsu attempted a field goal from the forty-yard line, which fell short by several feet. The game ended with the ball well in Delaware's territory.

"Art" Matsu played a great game at quarter, and generalised his team with brilliant leadership, decisively outplaying Garvine, the Delaware quarterback. Hastings and Charles displayed wonderful backfield ability. John and Lee Todd were mainstays in the Indian defense; they were here, there and everywhere, and into every play. They were fast down the field under punts, and swift, hard tacklers. Young, at tackle, played a brilliant game, with Parsons and Elliott running him for line honors.

For Delaware, Elliott was their brightest battering ram, and displayed his abilities as an excellent triple threat man. A pretty forward passing combination is Elliott to Garvine, who came within inches of completing several beautiful throws. Aiken at guard was the visitors' outstanding star. McKelvey at end played a brilliant game, and Donaldson did equally as well at centre.

The line-up and summary:

W. & M.	Pos.	Delaware
Jordan	L. E.	Magaw
Elliott	L. T.	Kramer
Parsons	L. G.	Hubert
J. Todd	C.	Donaldson

ABOUT A MEMORIAL

Dr. Chandler, in his remarks at the Armistice Day exercises, sounded a note which should be sounded at every opportunity until some action is taken. That note is that William and Mary should in some way perpetuate the memory of those of its sons who died in France during the World War.

The University of Richmond has its Milhiser gymnasium, a memorial to one of its alumni who died serving his country. At the University of Virginia there is a large tablet by the doorway leading into the Rotunda bearing the names of all the sons of University of Virginia who were killed and wounded in their country's cause. Practically every school in the State, and in the South, has some memorial to its sons who fought, and why should William and Mary lag behind?

A week or two ago the Flat Hat suggested the erection of a bell-tower on the campus; the same suggestion was voiced by Dr. Goodwin in his speech at the rally that same week. There is no doubt that such a tower would be a most splendid memorial, one that would stand forever as the ideal reminder of the heroes who have gone West. The soft, musical notes of Westminster Chimes would add an air of solemnity that would be very close to sacred.

There is no better time than now to start talking up this memorial—for William and Mary cannot lag behind in doing honor to those who helped to add more glory to its already glorious history.

ANOTHER GIFT FROM MRS. BLOW

It is with a feeling of deep gratitude that the Flat Hat learns of the recent addition made by Mrs. George Preston Blow to her already generous donation to the fund for building the new gymnasium. The amount of Mrs. Blow's new gift is not made known, but it is sufficient to know that it has enabled the authorities to greatly improve upon the plans for the gymnasium, and to make provision for a much broader field of development of athletics at the College.

The Flat Hat feels that every student, every alumnus, and every friend of the College is grateful to Mrs. Blow, and it takes this means of expressing to her a small measure of its appreciation of her wonderful generosity. Surely the College is fortunate to number Mrs. Blow among its friends.

The most recently discovered type of dumbell is that which congregates at the top of the steps in the Main Building and for the space of fifteen minutes prevents entrance to or exit from classes.

A popular melody around the campus these days is: "I Never Knew What a Kiss Could Mean Until the Council Got so Tight."

If our critics could run the Flat Hat a while—well, we won't argue that point.

Campus Silhouettes

(Note: In the absence of the regular Silhouette Editor, the following two borrowed sketches are offered for this week.)

Tall, dignified, his height increased by a hat which never quite sits down upon his head, he walks the campus paths, his pleasant disposition unruffled by class rolls, college rolls, or homesick students who long not to be on any roll at all. A little dog trots at his heels whenever a little dog can.

Calm, precise and stolid he stalks to his destination. A slow smile curves his lips when he meets a friend but his eyes behind thick-lensed glasses remain cold and unfriendly. In dress and manner he seems an English nobleman and so bears the regal nickname "Duke." He collects his thoughts before he speaks and then each sentence carefully phrased falls learnedly on the ear.

A constant movement of his jaws may astonish a stranger, for the Duke has taken up the flapperish habit of chewing gum. But he chews it in even, rhythmic time, soundlessly and endlessly.

"THE BLACK PARROT"

By Harry Hervey. Century Co.

"The black Parrot" takes its name from the half-breed convict, who, on the guillotine of the French Penal Colony in Indo China, declared that he would come back and avenge himself. Every time a convict escaped to the mainland, some token was left to show the handiwork of the Black Parrot.

Beautiful Lhasa Camber, travelling for adventure, hears of this story and determines to find out who he is. Conquest, the man with the scarred wrists, the ubiquitous Garon of the many roles, and a plentiful sprinkling of natives and other desperadoes all work overtime in carrying on their share of intrigue.

The author uses word-color so lavishly that the mass drips down from his palette and would obscure the action but for the fact that there is even more action than color. He copies Conrad laboriously. Though he has met with fair success in technique, he has missed the real Conrad.

"The Black Parrot" is a kaleidoscopic hodgepodge of color and adventure, on the whole, not badly done.

J. L. Hall Society Has Historic Meeting

The J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society met Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Main Building. The program centered around the history of interesting buildings in Williamsburg; Brafferton Hall, the Wythe House, the Peyton Randolph House and the home of Blair were all treated separately, and the "Lavender and Old Lace," in which their memories are enshrouded was unfolded and one caught a glimpse of powdered hair and knee trousers, as well as wigwags and tomahawks.

Much Spirit Shown In Upper-Class Meet

A revival of School Spirit was stressed as one of William and Mary's needs in a mass meeting of upper-classmen in the College Chapel Wednesday night, November 7. Competition between the upper and lower classes was suggested as a means to bring about such a revival.

Dr. Chandler addressed the old men, urging them to set an example for the freshmen. He told the gathering that the first year men had responded in greater number at all rallies, at football practise and on practically every other occasion better than had the upper-classmen. "When Mr. Cooke and I entered College here we had to pull together," Dr. Chandler told the students. "I want to see a revival of the old spirit and it is up to you old men to start things moving."

Coach Tasker offered a number of suggestions along with his services. He urged the men to get behind their teams and help push, and to keep on pushing until after the Thanksgiving game. Coach Tasker declared that he was going to start a program after Christmas and have an athletic night once a week during which there would be boxing, wrestling and other forms of indoor sports between the classes.

Cheer Leader Thatcher Mawson offered some suggestions to the body in the way of competitive events. His suggestion of a competitive bon fire between the sophomores, juniors and seniors on one hand and the freshmen on the other met with general approval. A committee was appointed to formulate some definite plans.

Local Branch A. A. U. W. Will Meet Tomorrow

The William and Mary branch of the American Association of University Women invites all women of the Senior Class to attend its November meeting to be held in the Sunday School room of the Baptist Church tomorrow at 4 P. M.

At this meeting, Miss Brown, President of the Local Branch, will speak, and Miss Cornelia Adair, a recent graduate of the College, will explain just why the alumnae of this College are not admitted to full membership in the Association.

Miss Adair represented this College at the national convention of the Association held last summer in Portland, Oregon, and is well informed as to the rules and regulations of the Association.

Team In Great Form For Roanoke Game

After defeating the strong University of Delaware eleven 14 to 0 last Saturday, the Indians are decking themselves in war paint for the Roanoke College game in Roanoke tomorrow.

Roanoke is strong this year, having defeated Randolph-Macon 66 to 0, and held V. M. I. 27 to 6. Last Monday they ran rough shod over George Washington University, to the tune of 33 to 0, with their brilliant passing. All of their players are seasoned vet-

Chi Delta Phi Holds Interesting Meeting

The Chi Delta Phi Fraternity held a meeting Sunday night, November 11. Modern poetry was discussed with special attention to the technique. It was decided to develop the outlines of study now appearing in the Bookman under the sponsorship of Amy Lowell, Carl Sandburg, Louis Untermeyer, Jean Starr Untermeyer, Sara Teasdale, and Anna Hempstead Branch. Selections from Edward Arlington Robinson and from Abbie Grim's "Ceremonials of Common Days," were criticized.

The Fraternity wishes to increase the number of volumes of modern poetry in the library, and to place them on a permanent shelf. Plans for open meetings with formal programs are being discussed.

This war ended, like other wars, in a treaty which only sowed the seed of future wars. It "messed up" the entire face of the European map, and that mess has not even begun to be settled. A new element in the unrest of today is religion, the same trouble which arose when the ancestors of Americans came to this continent. Mr. Bird here took a fling at ancestors when he said that all those who came to this country in the early days, came either because they were broke or were kicked out by their neighbors on account of their religion.

"It is the tendency of the time for everyone to want to know about Europe," said Mr. Bird, "but only Senators and Congressman really understand the situation." He also took a fling at the old policy which required that every college must have a member of the faculty from a German university. Now, Americans not only go to Europe but the former aloof European statesman must come to this country.

Mr. Bird's second lecture on Wednesday night concerned France and the reconstruction which is following the war. The last lecture of the series will be delivered tonight in the Chapel, the subject being "Austria." The speaker spent more time in this country than in any of the others and feels that he can give his audience a comprehensive outline of conditions.

Alpha Kappa Psi Holds Initiation

The Alpha Kappa Psi Fraternity held its initiation on Monday night, November 12. The following men were initiated into the Fraternity: Honorary members: Dr. William A. Hamilton, Dr. Charles C. Fitchner. Active members: M. W. Gill, Jr., E. C. Moncure, W. F. Andrews, Andre Goetz, E. C. Jones.

After the initiation a banquet and smoker was given by the Chapter in the Pocahontas Tea Room. Several impromptu speeches were made by the initiates and other members.

On account of the illness of Dr. L. L. Shaulis, and J. C. Moss, Jr., their initiation was postponed until a later date.

Dr. Hall, in his address, spoke of the noble part the sons of William and Mary had played in the Great War, and of the spirit of patriotism with which they gave up home and career in order to do their duty. "Many of them," he said, "were not heroes in outward appearances, but when the test came, the heroic qualities in them came out in a manner worthy of their race. No one would have called good, easy-going Nat Jennings a hero; but out there where men's souls were tried, Nat proved himself to be even more than a hero—he was a martyr to his comrades." Dr. Hall mentioned Sam Hubbard, Bittle Woods, and others whose names will live forever in William and Mary history.

A tribute was paid, also, to the living ones who came back. "You, too, did your part," said Dr. Hall, "and though you may feel at times now that you are neglected and forgotten, the day will come when you will be the greatest heroes in the world's history."

At the conclusion of Dr. Hall's address, the Legion Post Chaplain, David George, called the roll of those who "passed into the West," and taps was sounded while the audience stood with bowed heads.

Dr. Chandler, in delivering the presentation address, reviewed briefly William and Mary's glorious record in this country's four wars, calling the names of many of her immortal sons whose records are history. Mr. Swem, Librarian of the College, accepted the Flag for safe-keeping.

Elsewhere in this issue are some things to which the President wishes to call attention, and which were omitted on Saturday because of lack of time.

Mr. Bryan's Address Very Much Enjoyed

"Success from the Editor's Point of View," was the subject taken by John Stuart Bryan, Editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, in the second of a series of lectures on "Success," which are being given in the College Chapel under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

There are many kinds of men in the journalistic profession just as there are in any other, according to Mr. Bryan, and in a large number of cases they merely desire money. Others are in the business because they love it—would under no circumstances harm anyone by printing an untrue statement in their papers.

"Success," said Mr. Bryan, "depends not on the profession. An editor is as human as anyone else. The success of a man depends upon himself." He gave as illustrations, the careers of Pulitzer and other great men on the journalistic world.

F. P. Thornton, Chairman of the Y. M. C. A. committee on programs, has secured several speakers of wide reputation to lecture in the College Chapel this winter, and the next lecture will be given within the near future, it is announced.

Physical Education Class Statistics

Mr. Siersema has divided the "Duc" gym classes into sections, each of which has a basketball team. This not only allows all the men a chance to play but also uncovers some good prospects for the varsity.

There have been two games played to date. Section I beat Section II 24-5; Section III beat Section IV 32-4.

Mr. Jones and Mr. Siersema have compiled the average measurements from those figures which resulted from the physical examination of the freshmen class this year. These figures show that the freshmen taken as a whole this year measure up better physically than the freshman class of last year. The average figures for the freshman class of September, 1922, are given when entering and also at the end of the term which are much better than the figures for the same class when ending. These tests are positive proof of the good results of physical training. The following chart gives the measurements in order, first giving the measurements of the present 1923 freshman class and then the freshman class of 1922, and again in June, 1923:

An ancient, and the only Chinaman in a certain town, is the possessor of several dozen chickens, and had long been in the habit of supplying the lone grocery store in the village with its weekly quota of eggs. One day, during the moulting season, he sauntered in without the customary bucketful.

"Well," demanded the merchant, "no eggs for me today?"

"Nopee," replied the official egg-purveyor. "Me tella you why no got-um. Chickens he changum pants. He no layum now."

erans and have a dashing style of offense that is hard to stop. The Roanokers are particularly dangerous in their aerial attack, and Oakey, their left halfback, is a wonder on receiving and intercepting passes. Hurt, the Maroon plunging fullback, is a consistent ground gainer and equally as good on the defense. The main stay of their line is Captain Potter, who was a letter man in track at W. & M. Roanoke College has a team well trained in every phase of the game, and will bear considerable watching if the Indians wish to remain unscored upon by any college in its class this season. This contest tomorrow will be one of the hardest thus far, but the Indian eleven is in fighting trim and are eager for the chance to demonstrate their superiority.

Coach Tasker left Thursday for Roanoke with 22 of his grid warriors so as to have ample time in preparation for the approaching contest.

Freshman Contests To Be Held December 8

The Philomathean and Phoenix Literary Societies announce that the annual contest between the freshmen of these societies will be held this year on Saturday, December 8, at 8 o'clock. The contests will be decided on a point basis, allowing for readings, declamations, orations and the debate. The society winning the largest number of points will be awarded the Phoenix-Philomathean Freshman Banner, which is now in the possession of the Philomatheans. Handsome individual medals will also be awarded.

The whole contest centers around the debate, and it is upon this that the decision very often rests. In order that the best possible subject might be selected this year, the faculty suggested several and a choice was made by a joint committee of the two societies. The subject selected was: "Resolved: That France Should Withdraw from the Ruhr." It is of vital importance to the entire world today, and was considered by the committee as being one of the best.

Much interest is already being manifested, and both the Phoenix and Philomathean Societies are preparing for the preliminaries in which the representatives will be chosen. The Philomatheans are now in possession of the coveted banner and will strive to keep it for the next year, while the Phoenixians promise to exert every effort to recover their lost laurels.

Dr. John Garland Pollard has consented to act as chairman of the contest, and Drs. Hamilton, Spicer, and Morton have been asked by the committee to serve as judges.

Six minutes will be allowed for the readings and declamations, while the orations will receive eight minutes. Each debater will have ten minutes for the presentation of his prepared argument, and three more for rebuttal.

It is the purpose of this annual contest to arouse literary interest among the freshmen, and those in charge of the program this year hope that a great number will take advantage of the opportunity to represent one of the societies in one of the events.
